

CAN ENTER HIGH SCHOOLS WITHOUT THE "ENTRANCE"

NEW REGULATIONS SAY PRINCIPALS' CERTIFICATE WILL BE ACCEPTED.

Under new regulations issued by the Department of Education pupils can now be admitted to High Schools without passing an entrance examination. While this has been the practice for some time, the wording of the regulation was not clear to a great many teachers.

The clause in the revised rules states that the certificate of the Principal of a school shall state that the candidate whom he recommends for admission shall have completed satisfactorily the course of study in the subjects to which the recommendation refers, and shall be accepted by the entrance board.

This change is not intended to do away with written examinations, and where any candidates are admitted to High School without a Principal's certificate they shall be required to take the examination as the Entrance Board may direct.
