

References

- Acquisition History. (n.d.). Retrieved from <https://www.stantec.com/en/about/company-overview/our-evolution/acquisition-history>.
- Cawker, R., & Bernstein, W. (1988). Contemporary Canadian architecture: the mainstream and beyond. Markham, Ont.: Fitzhenry & Whiteside.
- City of Toronto Planning Board. PLAN FOR THE ANNEX, 1–14 (1959). Toronto.
- Corporate Planning Department. Selection of Key Stations to be made Accessible to Persons with Disabilities, (1991). Toronto.
- Crosariol, Beppi. (2018, April 21). Stantec to snap up Dunlop Architects. Retrieved from <https://www.theglobeandmail.com/life/stantec-to-snap-up-dunlop-architects/article745728/>.
- Farrow Partners. (n.d.). Retrieved from <http://farrowpartners.ca/history>.
- Hayes, D. (2008). Historical atlas of Toronto. Vancouver, B.C: Douglas & McIntyre.
- James Sutherland Bio. (2019). Retrieved from <https://www.jamessutherlandstudio.ca/xjames-bio.html>.
- Luste, G. J. Spadina Subway Construction from Dupont to Bloor Street on Spadina Road, 1–39 (1974). Toronto: Annex Ratepayers' Association.
- McHugh, P., & Bozikovic, A. (1989). Toronto architecture: city guide. Toronto: McClelland & Stewart.
- Moffatt, R. (2013, July 4). MOD TORONTO: Art and architecture on the Spadina subway. Retrieved from <http://spacing.ca/toronto/2013/07/03/mod-toronto-art-and-architecture-on-the-spadina-subway/>.
- Parkin, J., & Boyle, W. J. S. (1982). Art in architecture: art for the built environment in the Province of Ontario. Toronto, Ont., Canada: Visual Arts Ontario.