perception modern
Environments are invisible. Their groundrules, pervasive structure, and overall patterns elude easy perception.

The circuited city of the future will not be the huge hunk of concentrated real estate created by the railway. It will take on a totally new meaning under conditions of very rapid movement. It will be an information megalopolis. What remains of the configuration of former “cities’ will be very much like World’s Fairs – places in which to show off new technology, not places of work or residence.
